

Security Bus

If you're travelling at night around the Campus I would recommend that the best way of making it to Redfern Train Station alive is by using the University Security "free" bus service.

It leaves from Fisher Library and takes a scenic tour of the University. Please see the dodgy map for further details. Luckily there is a place for the engineers to catch the bus to Redfern Station leaving from the Aeronautical building.

The only problem with the bus is that if you're a typical Engineer and "optimising energy consumption" (feeling lazy) and want to catch the bus from outside of Manning bar to Aeronautical Engineering the bus driver won't let you out of the bus.

<http://www.security.usyd.edu.au/secbu.html>