

President's Welcome

Last Updated Sunday, 01 June 2008

Welcome to SUEUA.com!

After years of planning and a fantastic webmaster named Big Gay John we finally have our very own website, full of pictures, flashing text and information that is occasionally useful.

This site is here to keep you up to date with all the events that all the societies in Engineering are running. The photos section will have all the photos from all the events we have during the year - this will be amusing if you want to reminisce and helpful if you can't remember what happened after the 1st bin of death.

Engineering can, at times, be a gruelling degree. SUEUA, along with all the other faculty societies, aims to aid in the social outlet needed to balance work and play. Be it a free BBQ or a major event like Beer and Bangers or the first year camp, the Sydney University Engineering Undergraduate Association is there as the catalyst for fun and contains a network of members of all ages who are always willing to help you out when you're lost or confused, or to get a conversation started when the only friend you've made so far has to bail.

Enjoy!
