

Get a job, you lazy bastard

Last Updated Monday, 04 August 2008

In 3rd or 4th (or 5th) year? Lined up work experience yet?

We all need to do 420 hours of work experience to graduate, and the best time to get it done is in the holidays - which means you need to book it now.

Getting the work experience is generally really easy, and most companies offer you a full time job after graduating.

Below is an email from Keiran Passmore, Director of Engineering Sydney with info on how to get these jobs - getitintaya.

Dear Student,

Please find below the web link for Organisations that have indicated to Engineering Sydney(tm) that they have summer vacation work opportunities available for the period December 2008 to February 2009. Some companies have also indicated they still have graduate positions available for a 2009 start. This URL will be sent to you another 3-4 times between now and October but we strongly encourage you to visit it regularly as more companies come on board.

<http://www.eng.usyd.edu.au/engineeringsydney/vacation-placements.shtml>

I would also encourage you to also look at the Engineering Sydney Careers Fair web site below and target those companies as well as many of them also recruit summer vacation students

<http://www.eng.usyd.edu.au/engineeringsydney/careers.shtml>

cheers

Keiran Passmore

Executive Director

Engineering Sydney

9351 5768

kpassmore@eng.usyd.edu.au